STEP 1: Ask how the user will indicate "Yes." Then ask how they will indicate "No." Confirm you understand each by repeating back.

STEP 2: Slowly say the name of the underlined letter down the first column. User will only indicate "yes" when you get to the row they want. If they do not respond yes, go to the next row.

STEP 3: After the user selects the row, slowly call out the letters/words across that row. If they do not respond, go on to the next letter.

Repeat steps 2 and 3 until the user has spelled a word. It helps to write letters as you go to keep track.

Write letters here: _____

STEP 1: Ask how the user will indicate "Yes." Then ask how they will indicate "No." Confirm you understand each by repeating back.

STEP 2: Say the name of the categories down the first column. Go slowly to allow the user to respond and alert you to the category they want.

STEP 3: After the category is selected, read across the list of items in the row going slowly to allow the user time to respond. They will indicate "yes" when you get to the item they want to communicate.
